

Disclaimer

The content shared on this Instagram account and related platforms is provided for general information and educational purposes, reflects my personal views and experiences and is solely intended to contribute to public discussion and thought leadership. The content does not constitute medical, clinical, financial, or professional advice, nor does it necessarily reflect the views of Discovery or its affiliates.

Any of my personal routines, activities, or wellness practices are mentioned for illustrative purposes only and if undertaken, are done so at your own risk. While every effort has been made to reference credible research and data, information may be high-level, incomplete and may not be applicable to individual circumstances. No warranties are given as to accuracy or suitability.

You should always consult a qualified healthcare professional before starting or changing any diet, exercise or lifestyle programme. Accordingly, Discovery, its affiliates and I disclaim all liability for any loss, injury, or damage arising from any reliance on or use of this content.